

Edward DeBozo

You might have seen Edward DeBozo the clown at the Perth Royal Show, The 2007 Australia vs NZ 20/Twenty cricket match, The Perth Zoo, The WA Trots or at a regional agricultural show. Often it's a surprise when you see DeBozo because he might have squirted water near you from his mobile phone, or he might have lowered his rubber lobster on your head when you weren't looking. Or you might have just seen DeBozo the Clown entertaining a large mob of children by juggling, doing magic, riding unicycle or making balloon sculptures.

When there's enough space DeBozo also plays games with a parachute. Children of all ages can be seen running back to their parents with a huge smile and a comment like, "Wow, that was great!" or "He taught me how to juggle," or "I got a prize for being part of his show!"

Edward DeBozo can also be seen walking on stilts in parades, running games and circus activities or just being the 'professional idiot' he is.
