Dear Christopher

After watching you perform at the Chambers Investment function at Kings Park a couple of weeks ago, I am so glad I decided to book you for our Christmas Party last Friday, upstairs at the Oxford Hotel.

Your 'magic' is excellent and so entertaining.

Part of your magic is the unassuming way you meandered through our crowd, unleashing your prowess on unsuspecting people. That is definitely the best way to create your magic.

Every single person at our Christmas Party, who was witness to watching you perform, was blown away by your expertise. Even those that tried to trick you!

Thank you so much for creating that extra spark of magic at our staff Christmas party.

Have a Merry Christmas

Kind regards

To Whom it May Concern
CHRISTOPHER BISSETT

Christopher Bissett was the guest performer at our annual client function in June of this year. The standard of entertainment is always critical to the success of such important evenings and we were grateful that Christopher rose to the occasion.

His public speaking style was appropriate to his show of magic and tricks, and his involvement of the audience was at exactly the right level.

We received plenty of good feedback from our clients and are thankful for Christopher's contribution to the evening.

To whom it may concern

As the owner of a large real estate company, I frequently organize corporate functions for my staff. Usually, I hire a guest speaker for these events; however, for a recent corporate breakfast I decided to hire an entertainer by the name of Christopher Bisset.

What a unique and refreshing change he was....

Christopher labels himself a mind-reader of sorts, and his demonstrations of advanced suggestion techniques and reading people is nothing short of astonishing. He states quite openly that he is not psychic, but rather uses a combination of magic, suggestion, deception and psychology to achieve an amazing performance of mind reading entertainment.

Christopher's presentation was so captivating that at times you could have heard a pin drop. The suspense was superb!

Put simply, he blew sixty of my staff away with his unbelievable skills, excellent dress sense and impeccable charm. As the one who decided to hire him, I was extremely pleased how he entertained and intrigued us with his performance.

Although I have hired many guest speakers before, we have never had anyone who engages the audience quite like Christopher. Unlike the typical speeches at these events, Christopher interacted brilliantly with the audience and involved them with all his demonstrations. Everyone is still talking about his performance and his unique, highly entertaining style.

After seeing how professional, unique, and entertaining Christopher was, I recommend him unreservedly for any corporate functions or events

Yours faithfully
